Dear Mr. Jones:

Your letter of July 18th received. The book also arrived in good shape and I am very much pleased with it. I certainly appreciate your courtesy in securing it. I want to thank you also for the return of the check of $1.50. I feel that you should have kept it all for your trouble. The accommodating way in which the Landmark serves the community should be an added attraction for residents at Platte City.

My interest in this book was the genealogical material on the Todd family, beginning with page 129. The Joseph Todd at the top of page 129 was my great-great-great-grandfather. My line descends from Thomas Todd, his son, who finally established his home in Howard county, Mo., instead of from Joseph Todd, his son, who came to Platte. You might be interested in knowing that Joseph Todd of Platte, who married Cynthia Williams, and who at one time lived at Hardin County, Ky., owned, in Hardin County, the farm adjacent to the farm of the father and mother of Abraham Lincoln. There is a tradition that the father and mother of Abraham Lincoln were married at the home of this Joseph Todd and his wife, Cynthia. This information was given to me recently, by Louis A. Tarren, the author of a recent book on the parentage and childhood of Lincoln.

Thanking you for your courtesy, I am,

LINCOLN'S 'IN-LAWS'

THE writing and reading public takes keen interest in anything about ABRAHAM LINCOLN and his family. For that reason much attention was given to the death of Mrs. BEN HARDIN HELM, half-sister of Mrs. LINCOLN. The real significance was that she was almost the last of the persons who knew LINCOLN intimately. There was further interest from the fact she was the widow of a Confederate general and that her visit to the White House in war times caused the president some worry and made unpleasant talk in political circles. In his broad humanity, the president did everything possible for his sister-in-law, and defied the consequences.

It does not seem to be generally known that Mrs. LINCOLN's brother, Dr. W. B. Todd, was one of the fiercest LINCOLN haters that ever lived and that he died an unreconstructed "rebel." He was so incensed over the marriage of his sister to the Illinois lawyer that he never could keep his poise when the family was mentioned. He became a brilliant surgeon in the Confederate army and after the war he retired to the interior of South Carolina and lived for many years a lonely but somewhat excitable life. He died probably 20 years ago, probably unsoftened toward the memory of his famous relative.

My dear Mr. Gentry:

Mr. Jewell Mayes, Secretary of the Board of Agriculture at Jefferson City, has advised me that you were very much interested in Lincoln history and were related to Mary Todd Lincoln.

He thought you might be interested in receiving the bulletin which the Lincoln Historical Research Foundation publishes and which is sent gratis to about three thousand Lincoln students in America.

I am happy to place your name on our mailing list for Lincoln Lore and we hope you will enjoy its weekly visit.

Respectfully yours,

Dear Sir:-

In a recent conversation on the subject of Abraham Lincoln, a friend of mine showed me three loose-leaf volumes of "Lincoln Lore."

Inasmuch as I am deeply interested in the character of Lincoln, I inquired about subscribing for this data. He advised me that it could not be purchased but that it could be obtained by addressing a request for it to you. I assure you that I shall appreciate receiving current copies of "Lincoln Lore" and as many back numbers as you are in position to send me.

I am enclosing herewith fifty cents, which I have been advised is the price of two loose-leaf folders in which to bind the data and which, I believe, will be sufficient for the present.

Would it be asking too much if I were to inquire whether or not anything has been done as yet toward preserving the girlhood home of Mary Todd Lincoln? In my many visits to Lexington, Ky., this has always been a matter of concern to me, and recently I have heard rather vague reports that some steps in this direction have been taken.

In closing I should like to express to you again my appreciation of the work The Lincoln Historical Research Foundation is doing in the distribution of "Lincoln Lore."

Very truly yours,

My dear Madam:

We are having forwarded to you under separate cover binders for Lincoln Lore and such back numbers as are available. I regret that our files are not more complete.

We are also placing your name on our mailing list to receive subsequent copies.

I do not believe anything is now being done to preserve the girlhood home of Mary Todd Lincoln. On my last visit to Lexington I recall that a store now occupies a part of the building.

The name Van Arsdell is very familiar to me inasmuch as for several years I was in college at Lexington and attended the Central Christian Church in which there are several Van Arsdell families.

Thank you for your kind words about the work the Lincoln Foundation is doing.

Dear Dr. Warren:-

Thank you very much for your letter of April 10 regarding Lincoln Lore.

I was sorry to learn that nothing is being done to preserve the girlhood home of Mary Todd Lincoln; and still hope that something along this line will be started before it is too late. I can't but feel that Mary Todd was a strong character and an influence in Lincoln's life.
Then, too, Lincoln's visits in this home would seem to me to give it historical significance.

Yes, the name Van Arsdell is a very familiar one in and around Lexington. Mr. Van Arsdell's family, however, are members of the Maxwell Street Presbyterian Church. I look forward to our visits in Lexington with a great deal of pleasure; there is so much of historical interest in the Bluegrass section of Kentucky. And, of course, we always go to Harrodsburg. Since our last visit I have read William H. Townsend's book, "Lincoln and His Wife's Home Town," which causes me to look forward to our next visit with greater anticipation than ever before.

I am wondering if I may have the name of Mrs.
Blanche L. Armstrong, 225 Covington Drive, Detroit, placed on the mailing list for Lincoln Lore? Mrs. Armstrong is deeply interested in Lincoln and has asked me to do this for her. She will also appreciate receiving as many back numbers as are available. The cost of the loose-leaf folders will be forwarded when we see just how many are needed.

the war for Independence the small constituency of this church (Norriton-Providence) contributed to the patriot forces a chaplain, eleven officers and eleven men.

The thirty-five members reported to Presbytery in 1785, have grown to the present membership of 646, with a Sunday School enrollment of 558.

A long lived church, made so by God's gracious blessing on the life-long fidelity of long lived servants. Memorial plaques on the walls of Providence Church record that the Rev. Henry I. Rodenbaugh shepherded this flock for 45 years; Mrs. Annie Tyson taught in the one room 57 years; Jacob H. Hallman and William A. Shearer served as librarians 51 years.

A service is held in this ancient church annually on the third Sunday afternoon in September. The old style furnishings were burned out in 1903. However, it is the hope of an interested group to have the old building restored as a sacred relic of Presbyterianism—the oldest memento of Presbyterian enterprise within the bounds of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Louis A. Warren
Zork Wayne, Ind.

Dear Dr. Warren,

Some time ago my sister, Mrs. Jo H. Bauko, of Lynchburg, Va., sent me a clipping concerning your investigation concerning the ancestry of Abraham Lincoln. They were especially interested in this because her husband's grand father, Rev. Conrad Kuhl, D.D., b. Oct. 12, 1821, d. Jan. 28, 1898, is buried near Abraham Lincoln's tomb in Spring field, Ill. He was a Lutheran minister, and knew the Lincoln family well - I believe I remember some story told about visiting in a wagon - the details escape me. The wife of Rev. Kuhl was Eveline Marie Sell, who is also buried there.

We are descendants of Bedford and Campbell County, Va. families of Moorman, Clark, Alexander - in fact our gr. gr. grandfather Robert Alexander was the first clerk of Campbell - His daughter Esther, wife of Micajah Clark Moorman, planted our branch of these families in Fayette and Handman Counties, Tennessee soon after her husband's death near the Log College," asserts "It is certain that in Norriton we have the very first trace of Presbyterian enterprise within our whole bounds. A trustworthy tradition affirms that a plot of ground was purchased there for a graveyard, forerunner of a church, in the year 1678." What Presbyterian minister first proclaimed the Gospel within the bounds of Norriton parish we do not know. Francis MacKemie, in a letter dated July 28, 1685, makes mention that one Mr. W. Wardrope, a Presbyterian minister, had removed to Pennsylvania. Tradition fixes the place as Norriton and it is supposed that MacKemie himself preached here in 1692.

The first authentic record of a settled pastor is that of an elderly minister from Wales, Malachi Jones, who, in the same year (1714) that he established the Abington Presbyterian Church, took charge of the Norriton field.

The log church at Norriton was succeeded by a stone building in 1698. It is still standing on Germantown Pike at Fairview Village. In 1730 the congregation put up another building (log) a mile and a half away in the new township of Providence. Five churches have been erected successively on the Providence grounds.

This one church, with a hyphenated name, Norriton-Providence, has been under the one session all these years except during the time of the denominational division into Old Lights and New Lights (1741-1758) — a schism occasioned by the Providence Church calling John (Hellfire) Rowland, just out of Log College, to be its pastor.

Norriton - Providence is the mother of churches of the same name — New Providence Church—in Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri.

Out of it have gone missionaries, preachers, judges, governors, civil and military patriots — the Alexanders, the Todds, the Hamills, Henrys and Nassaus. Robert Todd, born 1697, lies buried in Providence graveyard. His great granddaughter, Mary, married Abraham Lincoln. Her first maternal ancestor, Robert Porter, born 1698, lies in Norriton cemetery. The Porter family is the most useful family Pennsylvania has ever produced.

The old Norriton building was used as a hospital after the battle of Germantown. Washington visited it; Benjamin Franklin and David Rittenhouse worshipped in it. In Russellville, Ala., of "a winter fever" -

And now I come to the point about which I am interested - the eldest son of Esther (Alex.) Moorman, Rev. Robert A. Alexander Moorman, M.D., my great grandfather, was a minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church - His longest term of service was at old Mt. Comfort C. P. church, near the house place, "Cedar Grove", now the Ames Plantation, near La Grange, Tenn.

I am especially interested in locating all kinds of data concerning this old church - now burned, for it was one of the first organizations in Hardeman County, and I find that a goodly number of old families of this section go back to the pioneer "little church in the wild wood" - Mt. Comfort. Since my people belonged there, of course I know a great deal about the history, but I am also interested in a great many other families; as to the type, where they came from - and whither they went.

Among them, I find the Todd family. They are all dead most of them & buried at old Mt. Comfort. I am told - that they were a high class, refined set of citizens - There are those yet living who remember them. From the old record book, begun in 1841 from the older record (church established in 1826) I find the names of

Levi Todd, a member in 1841, , wife,
Ann Todd, joined 1844 by letter, died Oct.
24, 1869

Harriet A. Todd " 1858 died

Jane Todd " " died

Lidia Todd " 1887

Nannie Todd " 1887

Louisa J. Todd " May 25, 1879 " 1880

Amanda W. Todd " 1880

Sampuel T. Todd.

In the Community there is said to have been an "Uncle Billy" Todd, also -

I have wondered and wondered, if by any chance "our" Todd family was of the same as that of Mary Todd Abraham Lincoln's wife. After I saw a published article stating that her father was Levi Todd, I became obsessed with the idea that the Hardeman County Tods were of this family.

My reason for so believing is because the first pastor of the flock, Rev. Wm Barnett had transferred his field of labor from around Russellville, Ky., to Hardeman County, Tenn., and "gathered a flock about him." Another who labored here early was Rev. Wm A. Bryan, born Todd Co., Ky., who undoubtedly arrived about the same time, for he married Rev. R. A. G. Moorman's sister, Judith Clark Moorman, in 1828.

If you can give me any information about Mary Todd's people, and as to whether the Mt. Comfort Levi Todd, was a relative or not, I would be most happy to secure the information for the data which I am compiling for a historical sketch of this beloved old church -

Sincerely yours, Mrs. Austin A. Baker

My dear Madam:

I fear I am not going to be able to help you any with reference to the Levi Todd family which were members of the old Mt. Comfort Church.

It is quite evident that the family from which Mary Todd, wife of Abraham Lincoln, descended was from Pennsylvania and they were in Kentucky as early as 1790. Although the name Levi is quite prominent in this family, I have been unable to find any connection thus far with the family known as Todd which you mention.

I have done considerable research work, however, in Virginia on the Lincoln family, especially in Campbell County, on the Hanks and Shipley families. We are now quite certain that Bedford County and the territory cut off from it was the original community of the Shipleys and Hankses, to which Lincoln's maternal ancestry is traced.

The names you mention from the old family in Campbell County are quite familiar to me.

I regret exceedingly that I cannot be of assistance to you with the Todd family, but evidently if they are related it was earlier than the Kentucky migration of the Todds.

Gentlemen:

I wonder if you will be kind enough to let me know by enclosed addressed and stamped envelope, if you happen to know anything about the relationships of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln.

My Grandmother use to tell me years ago that we are related to Abraham Lincolns Wife, Mary Todd Lincoln; And My Great GrandMothers name was Jane Todd; who married my Great Grand Farther Mr. Henry Silsby, a prominent carriage manufacturer, and wealthy man of his day, whos manufacturing plant still stands on South Pearl St , at Albany N.Y. He use to export carriages for the King of England.

I did not pay enough attention then, to know now what the relationship was, but would now be interested in knowing, and would very much appreciate any information that you could give me on the subject

Assuring you of my real appreciation,

My dear Mrs. Mance:

Your letter directed to National Park Service with respect to the history of the Mary Todd Lincoln family has been called to my attention.

Mary Todd's grandfather was Levi Todd, who married Jane Briggs.

Mary Todd's father, Robert S. Todd, had a sister Jane who married Daniel Burk.

This is as close as we can approach the query which you have presented with reference to your great grandmother Jane Todd.

If you can give us any further family history we might be able to connect you with this family.

We are taking the privilege of enclosing a copy of the bulletin which we issue which gives some discussion of the Todd family.

Dear Sir:-

In looking through the issues of the Genealogy and History Magazine, I read that you at one time gave a paper on the Todd Family. wherein you had traced the Todd Family.

For many years I have been trying to find a record of a Mary Todd of Indiana who married John Hayden, Jr. In the Hayden Magazine, I have found this record and feel quite confident that these are the parents of my grandmother Lucinda Hayden, who married (1) a Duredon and in 1837 Married my grandfather Willard Perry in Indiana. I have found their marriage record .

Can you give me the Name of the book from which you took the Todd Family Records? Where could I find this book or books? Possibly you may have this record, if so will you please send it to me . I shall be pleased to pay the fee for this information if necessary.

Please find enclosed a stamped and addressed envelope for your reply. May I hope to hear from you in the near future?

Dear Mrs. Christ:

I have your recent letter to Dr. Warren relative to the Todd Family.

Dr. Warren is now absent on a Western speaking itinerary and will not be back to Fort Wayne until some time in April.

I am unable to give you the names of the books and pamphlets to which he referred in compiling his information on Mary Todd Lincoln and her family but do know that there is no mention of a Mary Todd in Indiana who married a John Hayden nor is there mention of Lucinda Hayden or a Willard Perry.

If this is the same Todd family as existed in Kentucky you will probably get most of your information that you are seeking by writing to the Kentucky State Historical Society at Frankfort, Kentucky.

Dana Todd, with his daughter, conducts an art shop in a very nice section of the city. I have known them for quite a few years, but did not know before that they were of the same family as President Lincoln's wife. They are fine people. Dana Todd is all of seventy five years of age.

I have not taken the time to check up in my library the record as to John Blair Todd, but no doubt in your large collection you will find something in reference to him.

I received the extra number of Lincoln Lore which I asked for some weeks ago, also your friendly letter, and thank you for both.

Gentlemen:

Many, many thanks for the four copies, numbers 5,10,20 and 26, of The Lincoln Kinsman. I am devouring them with interest.

My great grandfather was Raisen Todd, evidently named for the Raisen River, born in Pickaway county, Ohio, June 24,1818. Died at Geneva February 17, 1875. His father was Samuel Todd. He died in Missouri.

Raisen Todd came to Adams county in 1837 taking up a tract of land of 160 acres in Monroe township, where he lived for seven years. At the end of the seven years he located in Buffalo (now Geneva) and opened one of the first stores there. He was the second postmaster to be appointed there succeeding John Conkle. He held office until 1870, when he again went to farming. He taught the first school in Monroe township. He had an excellent education.

My grandmother was Sarah Todd. My grandfather's name was John Landis Juday, the son of Henry S. who was born in Virginia in 1803.

Would it be asking too much to have you send the

My dear Miss Burdg:

I regret exceedingly I did not have the opportunity of meeting you when you visited our Museum here in The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company Building.

We have been greatly interested in the story of Mary Todd for many years and I think some articles have been sent to you which I have prepared on the Todd family.

I happen to have known Emily Todd Helm very well and also her two daughters

We trust that at the time you come to Fort Wayne you will bring with you the little portrait which you have in your possession showing the likeness of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln and any other tokens which would be of interest and we would be happy indeed to see them.

Very truly yours,

Subject: Lincoln Lore

Gentlemen:

For a number of years back I have had the pleasure of receiving copies of Lincoln Lore sheets, but since the issue of March 17, 1941, they have ceased coming.

Has this extremely valuable service been discontinued? And if not, what can I do to get back on the mailing list?

I happen to be related on both sides of my family to Mary Todd Lincoln. Ida Tarbell has quoted my paternal grandmother rather liberally in one of her books. My interest in Lincoln Lore is easy to understand.

If the back numbers are available, I would appreciate having them sent to my home address, 19 Westall Avenue.

Very truly yours,

Dear sirs:

In compiling data on my family towards a biography of James Barclay Texas Pioneer, I have done some research in old Rowan County records. Here I found the will of my great great grandfather Robert Barkley (some times spelled Bartley and Barclay) and wife ELIZABETH. Robert made his will Dec. 5th 1786 and it was probated 1788. Because of TODDS I am including the copy of heirs:

Sons: Samuel, David, John, Robert, William, Walter.

Daughters: Margaret, Elizabeth, Catharine, Mary, Rachel.

Grandsons: Robert Barkley and ROBERT TODD.

Executors: Benjamin Todd (probably son in law Peter)

Witnesses: Joseph Todd, Thomas Todd.

Samuel, the eldest son, died in 1804 (wife and family)

William, single, died in 1786.

Margaret married Benjamin Todd in 1785 (Bondsman Thomas Todd)

The old homestead was on Richard's Creek "adjoining John Davis, Israel Cox. etc. A second tract adjoined Benj. Todd.

My great grandfather was WALTER. He and Robert Jr. sold the old home etc 1797 making the deed in Kentucky (Madison County) and so therefore they must have been living in Ky. In 1804 my great grandfather married Miss Elizabeth McQueen in Madison County. Later they moved to Tenn, Alabama, Texas. I believe Robert Jr. and possibly others stayed in Ky.

I would like to identify these Todds. Can you tell me if this is Mrs. Lincoln's folks? Was there a LEAH TODD? I thought perhaps my great great grandmother Leah was a Todd. In biographies I have tried to find the names of Mrs. Lincoln's Mother and step Mother though did not succeed. Since My great great grandfather had a grandson Robert Todd, and my great grandfather's bondsman (in Ky) was still the William who witnessed the will of his father in old Rowan County, -I was of the opinion that this Thomas, William, Robert Todd were grandfather, father, etc of Mary Todd Lincoln? In Rowan County the name Samuel Anderson Barkley occurs. Note my great great grandfather Robert (wife Leah) named his oldest son Samuel. I see in Carl Sandburg's Volume 4 (index - page 306) Abraham Lincoln The War Years, -is a list which includes Samuel B. as half brother of Mrs. Lincoln, Capt David H. (half brother) Capt. Alexander B. (Mrs. Lincoln's half brother). I would be pleased to hear from you on this. There seems to be nothing definite on Mary Todd Lincoln

except the statement that her father was William S. and her father was Robert S. Todd. She named one son Thomas and another William which is a repetition of the family Todd names in with our Barkley records in old Rowan County wills.

My dear Dr. Warren:

Thank you for the copies of The Lincoln Kinsman, on the Todd family.

I have a manuscript written by the late Dr. S. C. Stone, a highly respected early citizen of Salem, a narrative of the journey of the Stones to Calif. and Ore. in the 1860's. Dr. Stone says: "John Stone, my father, was born May 7, 1821, and died Mar. 9, 1870. . . . He was buried at the Whitman Cemetery (near Walla Walla, Wash, burial place of the victims of the Dr. Marcus Whitman Indian massacre.) . . . John Stone married Permelia Durham White, a daughter of Asa White. Her mother was Mary Lewis, a cousin of Major Levi (?) Todd who was killed at Blue Licks, Ky. Slightly related to Mrs. Lincoln. . . . Mary Lewis White died when mother was a baby. . . . Mother had a brother, Silas White, a Baptist preacher who lived at Charleston, Ill. He died there. He has a son, Monroe White, who lives at Charleston."

I believe it was John, not Levi, Todd who died at Blue Licks.

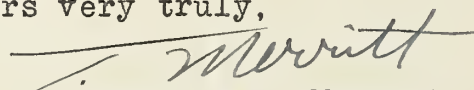

A sister of Dr. S. C. Stone tells me that Permelia D. White Stone "was a second cousin of Mary Todd Lincoln."

I notice in The Lincoln Kinsman of Nov., 1938, a Martha K. Todd, half-sister of Mrs. Lincoln, who married C. B. White.

My sister's daughter, Elizabeth Hamilton, married Don E. Scholey, who's paternal grandmother was May (Mary?) Scholey, nee Todd, said to have been a relative of Mary Todd Lincoln.

The above is furnished for any interest it may have for those interested in the Lincoln-Todd genealogy.

Yours very truly,

Theodore E. Merritt

Dear Dr. Warren:

I enjoyed your Mary Todd Lincoln very much and think you made a very good argument in her behalf. There can be no doubt that her ambition made Lincoln President.

The Todd family were friends of my great-grandfather Ralphael Lancaster who was the first Circuit Clerk of Casey County, then Deputy County Clerk, then County Clerk of the same County, all before he became of age. Then he married Caroline Carter and moved to Springfield, Ky. and became Deputy County Clerk under John Reed and in 1823 he became first County Clerk of Spencer County which place he held until his death in the early fifties. The Todd's were kindly people and they sent a 14 year old slave to nurse the old couple, and when they died my grandmother Isabella Lancaster Spalding inherited this slave. This woman lived to great age and I called on her and asked her why she did not return to the Todd's when the old couple died and she said she liked the Lancaster's and the Todd's let her remain. One of the Todd's married into the Lancaster family in Marion County and one son was born to the Union namely, Sam Todd. He was a handsome man, never married, but whiskey got him. He is buried in the Robert Lancaster lot in Lebanon.

Now my grandfather James P. Boldrick, his wife Mary Doneghy and my father George D. Boldrick coming from Danville, Ky. joined the Ky. Colony in Springfield, Ill. in the late forties and remained several years before returning to Danville. My grandfather James P. Boldrick was a tailor and knew Mr. Lincoln, my father being quite young did not remember him, but when his life was published in the Century Magazine he read it aloud to the family. My grandfather loved poetry and knew Shakespeare and would recite by the hour. He had no religion and my father brought all the Ministers in town, both Protestant and Catholic, without avail, and he died, while I was with him in Lebanon, reciting Byron's "Prayer to Nature." He is buried in Danville.

Perhaps the Census of 1850 may give my grandfather's name or the Springfield directories from 1847 to 1851 might throw some light on the subject. I spoke to you about it last evening.

Excuse this long letter but I thought you might be interested in the Todd-Lancaster story.

With very best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

I regret sincerely that we have never done any work on the Todd family which settled in Rockbridge County, Virginia. The Todd family in which we have been especially interested came from Pennsylvania and migrated to Kentucky.

My dear Dr. Warren:

In response to a recent inquiry, Mr. Roy P. Basler of the Abraham Lincoln Association, Springfield, Illinois has suggested that your organization might be able to furnish information concerning the Todd family.

The great grandmother of my wife was named Anne Todd. She was born in Lancashire, England and was married to Christopher Hayes, also of Lancashire. Some members of the family believe that Anne was a cousin of Mary Todd Lincoln.

I appreciate that this information might be wholly inadequate in so far as serving to determine what relationship between the two did exist; but if you have any data on hand, or could suggest a reference, I should like very much to know whether the two were of the same family branch.

My dear Mr. Ling:

I think you will find in the New York Public Library a book on John Todd, the story of his life told by himself.

The book is compiled and edited by John E. Todd, published by Harpers in 1876. In the appendix of the book he gives the story of the European Todds which is the best thing that I know of with respect to the family.

Although we have published some material now out of print on the Todd family in America we did not go back into the English ancestry.

I regret what we have printed is not available in sets. We will forward a copy of The Kinsman under separate cover.

MARY TODD'S KINSFOLK

The wide circulation of two books featuring Mary Todd, The Biography of a Marriage, by Ruth Painter Randall, and Love Is Eternal, by Irving Stone has brought many inquiries to the Foundation about the kinsfolk of Abraham Lincoln's wife. The genealogical information at hand on the Todd family is very fragmentary indeed, but such data as we have been able to gather is submitted in hopes that some Todd kinsman may prepare an adequate history of this prominent American family.

Upon Lincoln's marriage to Miss Todd he acquired a large number of in-law kinsfolk. Mary had three brothers, three sisters, four half brothers and five half sisters, fifteen in all. Inasmuch as most of them married and had children, Lincoln became a brother-in-law to about twenty-five people, and thirty-four nephews and nieces could truly call him "Uncle Abe." To our knowledge a listing of the names of all these is not available and we regret our inability to provide such a list at this time but some data is presented.

The forebears of Mary Todd were of Scotch descent and in 1679 fled from persecutors in Scotland to the north of Ireland. Thirty-six years later Andrew and Robert Todd migrated with their families to America. We shall be primarily interested in the descendants of Robert as he was Mary Todd's first known American ancestor.

a. Robert. 1697-1775. Established home in Providence Township, Montgomery County, Penn. where he is buried in the cemetery of Providence Presbyterian Church. Married (1st) Jean Smith. Children: a John, b David. Married (2nd) Isabella Bodley. Children: c William, d Andrew, e Robert, f Samuel, g Levi, h Elizabeth, i Mary, j Rebecca, k Sarah.

aa John. He was a clergyman and an educator in Virginia.

ab David. 1723-1785. Born in the north of Ireland, he was taken to Pennsylvania by his father. Late in life he moved to Lexington, Kentucky and lies buried in the Todd family burial lot. Married Hannah Owen, a Quaker of Welsh descent. Children: a John, b Robert, c Levi, d Owen, e Elizabeth, f Hannah.

ah Elizabeth. Mary Todd also traced her maternal ancestry through Elizabeth who married William Parker. Their daughter Elizabeth, married General Andrew Porter. Gen. Porter and wife also had a daughter Elizabeth, who married her cousin, Major Robert Parker. A daughter of the major and his wife named Eliza Ann married Robert Smith Todd, father of Mary Todd.

aba John. 1750-1782. Represented Kentucky County in General Assembly of Virginia, 1777. Introduced a bill for Negro emancipation in 1780. Succeeded Gen. Geo. Rogers Clark in command at Kaskaskia and governor of Illinois Territory. Killed in Battle of Blue Licks.

abb Robert. 1754-1814. General Robert Todd represented Kentucky in the Virginia Legislature. First senator from Fayette County after Kentucky was accepted into the Union.

abc Levi. 1756-1807. Born in Pennsylvania. Studied law and surveying under Uncle John Todd (aa) in Virginia. Was major, colonel, brigadier and major general of Kentucky forces. Married (1st) Jane Briggs (2nd) Jane Holmes. Children: a Hannah, b Elizabeth, c John, d Nancy, e Nancy, f Ann Maria, g Robert, h Jane, i Margaret, j Roger North, k Samuel.

abca Hannah. 1780-1832. Born in Fort Harrod, Kentucky. Married Rev. Robert Stuart. John Todd Stuart, first law partner of Abraham Lincoln was one of their seven children.

abcb John (Dr.). 1787-1865. Married Elizabeth Smith. Moved to Edwardsville, Ill., in 1817. Children: John B. S. married Catherine S. Hoffman, Francis Walton married Mrs. L. M. Jackson, William L. married Mrs. Clarissa J. Pike, Elizabeth J. married (1st) Harrison J. Grimsley (2nd) Rev. John H. Brown, Lockwood married Emily Husband, Frances S. married Thomas H. Shelby.

abcd David (Judge). Settled in Missouri in 1817. Children: Ann E. married Campbell.

abce Robert Smith. 1791-1849. Born near Lexington, Ky. Married (1st) Eliza Ann Parker. Children: a Elizabeth, b Levi, c Frances, d Mary Ann, e Robert Parker, f Ann, g George. Married (2nd) Elizabeth Humphries. Children: h Robert Smith, i Margaret, j Samuel Briggs, k David H., l Martha, m Emilie, n Alexander H., o Elodie, p Katherine.

abcg Roger North. Married Miss Ferguson. They had 8 children. One son, Robert L. married (1st) Sallie Hall (2nd) Martha Edwards.

abcj Samuel. Settled in Missouri 1817.

abca Elizabeth P. 1813-1888. Married Ninian W. Edwards Feb. 16, 1832. Children: Julia married Hon. E. L. Baker, Elizabeth married Wm. Clover, Charles, Albert S.

abccb Levi O. 1815-. Married Louisa Searls. Children: Louisa married Edward D. Keyes, Ella married Mr. Canfield, 2 others.

abcc Frances. 1817-. Married Dr. William S. Wallace. Children: Frances, Edward D., Charles E., Mary F. married Col. John P. Baker, 1 other.

Dr. Louis A. Warren,
Dear Sir;

By accident a copy of your Lincoln Lore, January 17, has fallen into my hands, and I assure you that it is very welcome, indeed.

I have been conducting a search of my fathers family and have come to a very dead end, and I need all the help that I can get.

I submit all the information that I have, which you can send on to anyone who is searching, same as myself.

I will collaborate with anyone of the Todd family in this search. Please give me names and addresses of them so that I may contact them. Time is very short, in that people are passing away every day, so the sooner this is done, the better.

My paternal grandfather was A. H. Todd, married Ruth Richardson first, daughter of Judge Richardson. I have a photo of Judge Richardson, taken in Edinburg, Indiana. It is presumed that they were married there. A. H. Todd died in Chillicothe, Missouri in the winter of 1902-03. I have no exact record of the date, and I have exhausted all sources in Chillicothe. There are no Todds there now.

There were seven sons; born about two years apart:

Oscar, born 1863, Chillicothe, Mo.
Joel Washington, born June 8, 1865, Chillicothe, Mo. Died Oct. 7, 1952 at Rocky Ford, Colo. This was my Father.
Louis A. Born Sept. 13, 1867, Chillicothe, Mo., Died Feb. 18, 1937, Reno, Nevada. I have a death certificate on him. Wife was Laura Minor. Two sons. Robert, last known in Vallejo, Calif. I cant find him. Dan, deceased, Reno, Nev.

I have written the caretaker of the cemetery at Utica, some few miles from Chillicothe, but no answer. His name is Bert Taylor, probably cant be bothered.

I do not know whether my grandfather, A. H. Todd, whose full name I do not have, came from Kentucky, Virginia, or Indiana.

Someone has to help me connect this thing, so that I may get back to the revolution and prove my S.A.R. claim.

My father was a Presbyterian Minister when I was born.

His first church was New Iberia, Louisiana. His statement;

" Robert Todd Lincoln came to New Iberia in his private R.R. car, where I visited him for one full day. We compared our family history, and he proved to me that we were distant Cousins."

That statement is all the encouragment that I have up to the present, but it is enough to go ahead on.

If you will continue to publish this kind of information, I have no doubt that all we Todds will be able to connect up our lineage.

Please put me on your mailing list, and send all Todd names and addresses that you have of those interseted.

I am very serious about this.

My dear Mr. Todd:

I was happy indeed to hear from you and learn of your interest in trying to encourage the gathering of information about the Todd family.

I think you will probably find in the Denver Library a book entitled "John Todd, The Story of His Life" compiled and edited by John E. Todd. The book was published in 1876 and in the appendix you will find quite an interesting biographical sketch of the Todd families in America. It is the best source I know of.

I do not know of any other book that would go into detail about the Todd ancestry.

We are going to be very happy indeed to put your name on our mailing list for Lincoln Lore and will send you from time to time such items as we may discover on the Todd family.

The Lincoln Kinsman
Box 1110

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Dear Sir:

I received the copy of the Lincoln Kinsman for which I wish to give you thanks. I am still in search of Todd information in connection with a David Henry Todd, thought to be a cousin of Mary Todd Lincoln. He was born in Ky; lived in Indiana & Wisconsin but died in California. His first wife was Melinda Graham & 2nd Sarah Farnish.

I noticed on the back page of your Todd family the desire of a list of Todd kin. Enclosed is a chart which is the result of several years of research. If it is of any use

THE TODDS IN AMERICA

In the year 1737, Andrew and Robert Todd, Grandsons of the above John Todd, came with their families from the north of Ireland to Pennsylvania. Of these

Robert was our first American ancestor born in Ireland in 1697; died in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania in 1775; buried in the churchyard of the Providence Presbyterian Church, in that County. He was twice married, in Ireland; his first wife Miss Smith, his second, Miss Bodley. By his first wife he had two sons, John and David; by his second, five sons and four daughters. The latter I do not follow. John Todd, the eldest son, it is necessary to follow from his intimate connection with our own branch. He graduated at Princeton College in 1749, in the second class added to a degree by that institution; was licensed by the same faculty to a degree by the following year, and was ordained by the same faculty in Brunswick in the following year.

Richardson (1814-1887) married Samuel Q. Richardson in 1812. They had six children, one of whom, Anna Cabell Richardson (1814-1887) married Dr. William Todd of Farmington, Iowa, in 1841. That is the only tie-in between Todds, etc.,

The Todds were from Scotland, and were Covenanters. Of the Covenanters captured at Bothwell Bridge, two hundred and fifty were sentenced to be transported to America. Of these, two hundred were drowned in the shipwreck of the vessel--off Orkney. They had been shut up below the hatches of the ship by orders of Paterson, the merchant who had contracted for their transportation and sale. Fifty escaped and afterward took part in the defense of London. Among those who were drowned was Robert Todd, of Penwick--not known certainly to have been of our ancestry. But in the same year, 1677,

JOHN TODD, our first known ancestor, 1649
a landlord who held land in fee (termed a "land"), fled from the persecutions of Claverhouse in Scotland, to find refuge in the north of Ireland.

THE TODDS IN AMERICA

In the year 1737, Andrew and Robert Todd, grandsons of the above John Todd, came with their families from the north of Ireland to Pennsylvania. Of these

Robert was our first American ancestor
Born in Ireland in 1697; died in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania in 1775; buried in the churchyard of the Providence Presbyterian Church, in that County. He was twice married, in Ireland; his first wife Miss Smith, his second, Miss Bodley. By his first wife he had two sons, John and David; by his second, five sons and four daughters. The latter I do not follow. John Todd, the eldest son, is necessary to follow from his intimate connection with our own land. He graduated at Princeton College in 1749, in the second class, admitted to a degree by that institution; was licensed by the Synod of New Brunswick in the following year, and was ordained by the same body in 1751. He then went to Virginia by invitation of Rev. Daniel Davis, the most noted, and perhaps most eloquent of all American preachers, to aid him in his widely scattered work. There John became his successor of the most distinguished preachers in America, a Doctor of Divinity, of great fame for his learning. He was a teacher also, as preachers in that day were generally called to do.

David Todd, his brother, second son of Robert, the emigrant, our second ancestor in America, born in Ireland, April 8th, 1723, (coming when a child with his father to America) married Hannah Owen, of Irish descent and a Quakeress, lived a farmer, and resided at a farm in Providence township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, to which his father had emigrated and where (as above) the father died. He sent his sons, John, Robert, Levi (possibly, the son of Owen) to Virginia, to his brother, Rev. Dr. John Todd, and his son. They all became classical scholars, and were later introduced for the bar.

The Todds in Kentucky

John Todd, son of David Todd and Hannah Owen, born March 2, 1751, after some practice in his profession, and some previous military life, at the age of 25, in the year 1775 (early in the year) went to Kentucky, where he joined Gen. Ben Logan, at Fort Mifflin, which was at Stanford. Whether his brothers Robert, (for whom I was named) born April 19th, 1754, and Levi (my grandfather) born October 8th, 1756, went at that time with him does not appear.

At any rate they are found there shortly after: Robert at the age of 22, and Levi at 20. John Maron Brown, in his Blue Licks Centennial Oration says of John that he was "facile princeps" among the pioneers, and Tom Groen (in Historic Families of Kentucky) that he was "the best educated and most accomplished and the most richly endowed by nature of all the early pioneers and surveyors of Kentucky"--while it is evident from all the history. In 1777 he was one of the first two burgesses sent by Kentucky County to the Virginia General Assembly. On the division of Kentucky into three counties, he was made Colonel of Payette, embracing the larger portion of the state, Boone Lieutenant Col., and Levi Todd, Major. He accompanied Gen. George Rogers Clarke in the campaign against Kaskaskia, and on its capture became civil governor and colonel of the county of Illinois, retaining his rank in Kentucky, where he continued to live, passing back and forth frequently. He was senior officer at the battle of Blue Licks, into which he was forced prematurely by the folly of a subordinate, and was killed. Robert Todd also participated in all the Indian warfare of the time and the region, and was sent to the Virginia Legislature before Kentucky became a state. It was while members of that body the brothers, aided by their distinguished uncle, who had educated them, and who exhibited the deepest interest in providing for liberal education in the new territory, succeeded in founding and endowing Transylvania Seminary, afterwards Transylvania University. The uncle visited the Eastern states and Europe gathering for it books, apparatus and funds, and gave largely of his own library. Robert Todd, upon the entrance of Kentucky as a state into the Union, was first state senator from Payette County, and was afterwards for many years Circuit Judge. Levi Todd was Captain of a company, also the first clerk of the first court ever held in the west, before he was 21 years of age. He accompanied his brother John, with Geo. Rogers Clarke, to Kaskaskia, and was a major in the fatal battle of Blue Licks. He sent his Lieutenant Patterson to prospect for a new station on the north side of the Kentucky river. Each resulted in the selection of the site and the settlement of Lexington. The three brothers settled there, owning town lots and large tracts of land near. When Kentucky became a state Levi was made first clerk of the court, in which office he continued until his death in 1807. He advanced in military rank to Major General. Groen says, "Those military titles were won by actual service; his reputation was secured by real and hard fighting. A solid, substantial, enterprising citizen; a sensible, intelligent, well-educated man; a consistent Presbyterian; a valuable and faithful servant; a good soldier. Of course he was respected at a time when those qualities were most useful and honored."

John Todd married Miss Hawkins. He left only one child, who married first Col. Russell, and after his death became the second wife of Robert Wickliffe, Sr. Her son by first marriage dying, she made a deed of gift to her second husband, by which all the great estate coming to her from her father passed to the family of Mr. Wickliffe.

Robert Todd married, <sup>Levi's sister-in-law</sup> a daughter of his uncle and preceptor, Rev. Dr. John Todd, of Virginia. One of his daughters married Gen. William O. Butler. His sons Judge Levi Todd and Col. Thomas Todd, after achieving distinction as young men in Kentucky, became more distinguished in Indiana.

Levi Todd married Jane Briggs, daughter of Samuel Briggs, a brother-in-law of Gen. Ben Logan, and a man of highest personal and religious character, long associated with Logan in church and other matters previous to coming to Kentucky with him. They were married in Fort Asaph, Logan's Fort, at Stanford, Ky., Sept. 25th, 1779.

The father of these young men, David Todd, joined the two survivors (John having fallen in battle) in Kentucky, in 1783, and is buried with them in the Cemetery at Lexington.

Mary Ellen left two daughters--one of them, Mrs. Charles S. Brent of Paris, Ky. All the sons have descendants.

3-- Dr. John Todd, of Springfield, Illinois. Born 1787. Was, in his early manhood, accounted the handsomest man in Kentucky. I knew him in his age, one of the most elegant and interesting, and still one of the handsomest of men. Married Elizabeth Smith. His children were: Gen. John Todd, Dr. Walton Todd, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Fannie Todd Shelby, John Todd Shelby, of Lexington, Ky., his grandson.

4-- Nancy: married her cousin, son of Judge Robert Todd, Dr. ...
Todd, long of Danville, Ky. Her children were:
Dr. David Todd, Dr. Thomas Todd and Anne. Dr. David Todd only left descendants--in Owensboro, Ky.

5-- Judge David Todd: married Eliza Barr. Born 1786. After election to Kentucky Legislature four times when quite a young man, moved to Columbia, Missouri, where he became a distinguished citizen, became a Judge and was a candidate for governor. His children were:
Robert (became Judge of the Supreme Court of Louisiana), William,
Rebecca (Samuels), Ann (Campbell), Letitia (Breck), Nedora, David, etc., Caroline. Mrs. Lemon and Mrs. Johnson, children of Rebecca. Children of Letitia Breck: David, Dan, Eliza, Robert, Edward and Letitia.
David married Laura Kershaw and has two children.

6-- Maria: married Waller Bullock (second wife), a plain man of great abilities and influence. She left no children.

7-- Robert Smith Todd: born Feb. 25th, 1791. Twenty years Clerk of House of Representatives of Kentucky, three times elected Representative and once Senator in Kentucky Legislature, candidate for re-election to the Senate, and prominently before the state as a probable candidate for Governor, at the time of his death, 1849.
Married Eliza Parker; second wife, Elizabeth Humphries. Children:
Elizabeth (Edwards), Mary (Lincoln), Levi, Dr. George C., William (Wallace), Margaret (Kellogg), Samuel B. (Confederate soldier, killed at Shiloh), David (Confederate soldier, died from wounds received at Vicksburg), Alexander (Confederate soldier, killed at Baton Rouge), Catherine B., Martha (White), Emilie (Helm), Elodie (Dawson).
Gen. Ben Hardin Helm, husband of Emilie, was killed at Chic Their children, Catherine, Ben Hardin, and Elodie. Numerous of 9-- (misplaced) Samuel Briggs Todd: born 1795, married Caroline Barr.

 Lived in Missouri. Left two daughters: one survives.

10--Roger North Todd: born 1797. Married Matilda Ferguson--Robert Levi
 Todd, John Todd, Mrs. Gentry and Mrs. Burnam.

11--Margaret: married Col. William Rodas, State Senator from Fayette County, one of nature's noblemen. Left one son, Levi, who left no issue.

12--My grandmother, Jane Briggs, died in 1803. Gen. Levi Todd married a second time--Mrs. Tatum. His twelfth child (second marriage) was James Clarke Todd: an intelligent, godly, and most lovely man-- Elsie Todd. Dr. L. Beecher Todd.

The Todds have in all generations been well-educated, intelligent, Christian people, with few departures, and then generally by intermarriage, from the Presbyterian faith, beginning with Covenanters and martyrs for truth and liberty.

Mr. Bert Sheldon
3315 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20016

Dear Mr. Sheldon,

My brother, John Breckinridge, has forwarded me your letter of 4 October, in which you make some inquiries about a number of relationships. I will try to comment briefly on them, as raised in your letter, but know in advance that this will be somewhat disjointed. I notice that you live in Washington, and perhaps we might discuss it sometime, with book in hand.

First, you asked about Waller Robert Bullock and James Dunwoody (Timmy) Bullock. You ask about their relationship to John C. Breckinridge, and in turn, John C.'s relationship to Mary Todd, wife of Abraham Lincoln. My reference on all these questions is The Cabells and Their Kin by Alexander Brown, first published in 1895 and republished in 1939.

John Breckinridge, later a U.S. Senator and Attorney General in Jefferson's cabinet, married Mary Hopkins Cabell. They had a number of children, one of whom was Joseph Cabell Breckinridge, who married Mary Clay Smith. The children of this latter couple included John Cabell Breckinridge of Civil War fame and Caroline Laurens Breckinridge. Caroline married (1832) Rev. Joseph J. Bullock. They had eight children:

1. Waller Robert Bullock (1834-1871).
2. Mary Stanhope Bullock (b. 1837).
3. Cabell Breckinridge Bullock (b. 1840), whom I remember as a dignified gentleman in Lexington, Kentucky.
4. Frances Breckinridge Bullock (1841-1842).
5. Joseph James Bullock (b. 1843).
6. Letitia Parkhill Bullock (b. 1846).
7. John Milton Bullock (b. 1848).
8. Sarah Graham Bullock (. 1851, d. infant).

So Waller Robert Bullock, whose story indicates that he is the same one you mention, was a nephew of John C. Breckinridge. Timmy, although obviously a relative, is in another line, as he does not show in my book.

The Todds were, of course, also a Lexington family. Now, to reach way out (and probably incorrectly) Mary Hopkins Cabell (who married John Breckinridge) had a sister named Ann (1771-1840). She married Robert Carter Harrison (1788) and they moved to Fayette County, Kentucky (of which Lexington is the county seat). They had ten children, of whom the second, Mary Hopkins Harrison (1791-1834) married Samuel Q. Richardson in 1812. They had six children, one of whom, Anna Cabell Richardson (1814-1887) married Dr. William Todd of Farmington, Iowa, in 1841. That is the only tie-in between Todds, etc.,

that I can find. Given the close relationships of the time, it is possible that some other tie between Todds and John C. Breckinridge exist, but I am not at present familiar with them. There could be some other sort of tie, as you suggest, through Mary Todd Lincoln's step-mother, but I have nothing that throws any light on it. So, I can't help you with the speculative possibility of a relationship between Teddy Roosevelt and Lincoln's wife.

This is a very unprofessional reply, based on references available to me from a single book. I am sorry that I cannot help you further in your inquiry, but as some of the lines you mention are prominent ones, I would imagine that the Library of Congress would have some material on the point, should you have time to pursue it there.

Very truly yours,

TWO NEW LINCOLN SITES . . . MAYBE

America's continuing interest in Abraham Lincoln is a phenomenon most evident on a broadly popular level. There may well be less research in progress on Lincoln manuscripts and books than there was two or three decades ago. Real action is taking place, however, where masses of Americans look increasingly for their contacts with history, at historical sites. The National Park Service initiated a long-range program to improve the Lincoln home site in Springfield, Illinois, some years back. There is a large project under way to upgrade the interpretative material at other Lincoln sites in Illinois as well. A new site in Kentucky was dedicated just this year, and people in Vermont, of all places, are at work to save another Lincoln-related historical site.

The newest addition is the Mary Todd Lincoln House in Lexington, Kentucky, dedicated on June ninth of this year. Like all such events, this dedication was the result of considerable struggle over a substantial period in the past. More than seven years ago, Mrs. Louis B. Nunn, wife of the governor of Kentucky at that time, visited the historic brick house in which Mary Todd spent her girlhood years. The wives of the governors of Indiana and Illinois were coming for a visit and had expressed an interest in seeing the house. Mrs. Nunn was shocked to find that the Todd home was a tumbledown warehouse for plumbing supplies.

The house had survived many close calls in the past. As early as 1921, civic and historical groups in Lexington showed interest in using the house for a museum. After a year's efforts, however, the only accomplishment was the placement of a tablet on the outside of the building describing its history. Occasional newspaper articles on the sad plight of the house sparked little interest. A proposal to use it for commercial purposes in 1932 did prompt a protest from a black church across the street. Louis A. Warren, the first editor of Lincoln Lore, made several attempts in the 1940s to interest Lexington citizens in converting the home into an historic site, but in 1946, the house was nearly razed to make room for a gas station.

The home was a victim of forces of which we have only recently become aware. Before the era of woman's liberation, it was not easy to arouse enthusiasm for a girlhood home. Indeed, the Kentucky Mansions Preservation Foundation touts the home as "the first shrine to honor an American First Lady." C. Frank Dunn, a local Lexington historian who was interested in saving the house in 1949, wrote Louis Warren to tell him that it would never work to save the home "to glorify womanhood." It could only succeed as an essentially Lincoln-related memorial.

Dunn pointed to other problems. He did not feel that any prominent woman in Lexington would lead a campaign to save the Todd house. For one thing, the home was a notorious house of ill fame in some of the years after it passed out of Todd family hands. For another, most of the leaders of Lexington society were Confederate descendants. Despite the fact that the state did not secede, Lincoln's policies on race drove Kentucky sentiment into the camp of the Solid South after the war was over, and there that sentiment remained as late as 1949. A further problem was the extremely poor condition of the house. At that time, it seemed "utterly impossible to restore the place."

The Todd home went through the various stages of decay that properties on the slide go through. The original family left, and the occupants became people without a permanent home. From a rooming house, it became a place where people went just for an evening. From a saloon, it became a place occupied more by objects than people, a used-furniture store. At last, it became a place occupied only by objects, a warehouse.

Mrs. Nunn organized the Kentucky Mansions Preservation Foundation in 1969 to renovate the Executive Mansion in Frankfort. The organization restored White Hall, the home of Lincoln's minister to Russia, antislavery maverick Cassius M. Clay. The Foundation also took an interest in the Todd home, but the conversion of that home to a public historic site would not be accomplished without a final struggle.

The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs raised $26,500, the appraised value of the house. Governor Nunn provided $100,000 in state money from a contingency fund. The Department of Housing and Urban Development included the block on which the Todd home was situated in a Lexington urban renewal tract. In 1971, the Commonwealth of Kentucky bought the tract, but a long legal battle ensued. The owners contested the state's ability to condemn the property on the basis of the value of that piece of property alone without considering its value in conjunction with surrounding properties. In 1973, the Kentucky Court of Appeals upheld a Fayette Circuit Court ruling that the state could condemn the property without considering the value of the adjacent property.

Actual restoration of the property could not begin until 1976. Governor Julian Carroll's administration provided $465,000 to restore the house and purchase furnishings. The governor and his wife also made unused Executive Mansion furniture available for use in the Todd home. The feat was at last accomplished.

The house was built in the first decade of the nineteenth century. Robert Smith Todd purchased the house in 1832, when his daughter Mary was already fourteen years old. She lived in the home until she left for Springfield in 1839; her father lived there until his death in 1849. While he lived in the house, Robert Todd was clerk of the Kentucky House of Representatives, was elected to the Kentucky Senate, and was president of the Lexington branch of the Bank of Kentucky. The family gained substantial income from a grocery establishment.

Of course, the original furnishings of the Todd home have not survived. When Robert Todd died in 1849, his estate was offered for sale and was scattered far and wide. The inventory of the estate made for that sale survives, however, and from that inventory it was possible to make an educated guess at the furnishings of the house. The twenty-room brick house contains a rare portrait of Robert Todd and draperies copied from a surviving swatch from the original parlor. The home is open to visitors from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday.

The name of Robert Todd figures prominently in the struggle which is presently going on to save Hildene, a mansion in Manchester, Vermont. It was the home of Robert Todd Lincoln, the only son of Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln to live to maturity. Robert first visited Manchester on a vacation to escape the heat of a Washington summer during the Civil War. He visited the area repeatedly after the war and was especially fond of the summer home his law partner, Edward Swift Isham, kept in the area. In 1902, now wealthy and successful, Robert Todd Lincoln purchased several hundred acres in Manchester. In 1904, Hildene was built and remained in the family's hands until the death of Robert's granddaughter, Mary Lincoln Beckwith, in 1975. Her will left the 412-acre estate to the Christian Science Church with the wish that it be preserved as a memorial to her grandparents. However, the will contains an escape clause allowing the church to sell the estate if it is "impractical" to run the estate as an historical memorial.

The position of the Christian Science Church is simple. They consider themselves, according to Mr. Carl B. Rechner, Real Estate Consultant at the Christian Science Center in Boston, a "small but international church." They are not equipped to run historical memorials, and that is an enterprise which does not particularly fit their mainly religious objectives. They wish to follow the spirit of the will and will sell the property to any group which will operate the property as a memorial to the Lincolns. However, the property was appraised at $612,000, and no group which wishes to operate the home as an historic property has that kind of money. Mr. Rechner said that the church offered to sell for $400,000 and to "make terms" that would ease even that burden, but their offer has not been taken. They have been offered, $200,000, which they refused. They feel that, if no group prepared to manage the property as a memorial offers to buy it for a reasonable price, that they are then free to sell to any other buyer for the next best use.

The Friends of Hildene, Inc., a group of over one hundred Manchester citizens anxious to save the mansion for historical purposes, is long on sentiment for the project and, understandably, short on funds. One major gift, says FOH president Robert Schmid, allowed them to make the $200,000 offer. Since negotiations to close the gap between that and the church's figure have broken down, that offer has been withdrawn. The Friends of Hildene think that they have an excellent chance to save the estate through the courts. "News from the Friends of Hildene," a bulletin published by the organization, stated their case this way in April:

The FOH stand, buttressed by legal precedent and authority, is that the Church has not shown — and has made no good faith effort to establish — that to run Hildene as directed in the Will would be "impractical." Therefore, having failed to establish "impracticality," the Church is not free to sell the estate except to a buyer who will honor Miss Beckwith's memorial concept. In FOH's view "impracticality" might have been argued if the Beckwith Will had left no money to the Church as operating capital for the maintenance of a Hildene memorial. But the Will provides a specific fund of $425,000. as endowment for this memorial purpose as well as "all the rest, residue, and remainder" of the estate after taxes and expenses have been paid. Thus, with . . . working capital and with full title to the land and buildings, . . . the Church must present convincing evidence — which has not been forthcoming — that it is "impractical" to maintain Hildene as a memorial.

From the Louis A. Warren

The $425,000 endowment was a fund set aside in Miss Beckwith's will for her servants. The servants are all deceased now, and in that contingency the money and the "rest and residue" of the estate after settlement were to go to the operation of the memorial. Mr. Schmid estimates the amount available for this purpose now at $780,000 in cash, stocks, and bonds. A court fight is in the offing, the Church petitioning the courts for permission to sell Hildene on the open market and the Friends of Hildene "determined to prevent, by all legal means, the diversion of these resources from their intended purpose."

Hildene has been nominated for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places by the Vermont State Division for Historic Preservation, which described it as a "magnificent example of Georgian revival architecture." Miss Kathryn Welch, planning officer for the Boston regional office of the National Trust for Historic Preservation noted:

The estate contains a multiplicity of artifacts, memorabilia, and archival materials, which would be of historical significance. Resources such as the papers and correspondence of Robert Todd Lincoln and the Lincoln-Beckwith families as well as the collection of artifacts should be evaluated for their content and significance relative to U.S. history, the history of the Lincoln-Beckwith family, and the more local history of the estate and the town of Manchester.

The home is in good physical condition, and Mr. Schmid says that the furnishings in the home are mostly the ones Robert Todd Lincoln acquired for it. Miss Beckwith, known locally as "Peg," lived in the house as it had been set up by her grandfather. She bought very few furnishings herself. Some of the furnishings, however, go to Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith, Miss Beckwith's brother, and he is currently distributing some of the items. Friends of Hildene have contacted him, however, and he has apparently agreed to leave certain very important pieces, like the grandfather clock, in the home.

When I asked Mr. Rechner for a description of the Church's position, he gave me in essence the position I described as the Church's above. He did not mention the endowment fund on which the Friends of Hildene place so much emphasis. Wanting to clarify the matter, I called the Church's associate counsel, Mr. Philip Hunt. He expressed some reluctance to discuss a matter of litigation at first, but he did consent to discuss the will a bit. The "so-called endowment" fund is "in there," he said, as a trust which was never set up because all the potential beneficiaries were deceased before they could benefit from it. Mr. Hunt's position is that, "endowment" fund or no, the whole question hinges on "the degree of discretion" Miss Beckwith desired the directors of the Church to have. The courts, he said, will look at the critical words in the will, which state that in the event the directors should determine the historical memorial purpose impractical, they could use the property to further the ends of religion as taught by Mary Baker Eddy. The will states that it is Miss Beckwith's "desire," but she does "not direct" that it be used for the historical purpose. She could have directed them to do so and left the property to someone else in the event that they did not wish to do so. The courts will have to interpret whether it is entirely up to the directors of the Church to decide the question of practicality. In the meantime, Lincoln enthusiasts will have to wait and watch anxiously or hope that some benefactor can close the gap between the Church's price for the property and the funds raised by the Friends of Hildene.

Editor's Note: Readers of the credits for photographs in recent issues will have noted the appearance of the Louis A. Warren Lincoln Library and Museum. This is the new name for the Lincoln National Life Foundation. A future issue will deal with the renaming of the Foundation in honor of its first director and with the move of the facility to brand new quarters.

My Dear Mrs. Helm-

I am sure you will pardon me for my apparent neglect in answering your postal of the 5th inst. Each day since its receipt I have been expecting to get some data from memoranda I made of our march to Baton Rouge in August '62, but so far have been unable to find them. So I will write as best I can from memory.

A few things in connection with the March to Baton Rouge from Camp Moore (Tangipahoe) I shall never forget. The principal one was a brief association with your brother, and his death and burial. Perhaps I should mention the fact that I was Quarter Master Sergeant of General Helm's Brigade under Major Geo. Triplett. I enlisted as a private of Company "B", Maney's First Tennessee Regiment, and after the battle of Shiloh was transferred to the Kentucky troops. The latter part of July '62 General Breckinridge was ordered to move a part of his corps from Vicksburg by way of Jackson to Camp Moore, situated on what is now the I.C.R.R. A part of these troops was General Helm's Brigade. General Breckinridge took charge of the movement against Port Hudson in person.

We remained at Camp Moore two days at which time the army was formed into two divisions, your husband commanding one of these. The army commenced its march against Baton Rouge on the last of July, the distance being about fifty miles. On the evening of August 4th the army went into camp about seven or eight miles from Baton Rouge. Preparations were begun for an attack on the city, and after mid-night commenced, the column moving down the road from Tangipahoe to Baton Rouge, and before day break had reached a position about three miles from the city. On one side of the road was a sugar cane field, on the other a thick undergrowth of trees and palms. I had charge of the ordinance train and endeavoring to rest on boxes of ammunition in one of the wagons when I was aroused by a volley of musketry poured into our troops from the field of sugar cane. It was this volley that painfully hurt General Helm and fatally wounded your brother Alex.

From some of our soldiers who were wounded and made their way to the rear, I learned the sad disaster that had overtaken our column; first, that General Helm and afterwards Alex had been badly wounded.

Alex was as tenderly cared for as could be under the circumstances. He was taken to the rear by some of his comrades about two miles from the place where he was wounded and laid on the grass in the corner of and under the shadow of a rail fence near where my teams were resting. When I first saw him he seemed to know me although he did not speak. He had the death pallor on his face. I looked at his wound and found it to be an ugly rifle shot shortly below and to the right of the pit of the stomach (this as I remember it) going clear through his body.

It was not long, however, before he drifted into a wholly unconscious state. As soon as could be done arrangements were made for having him removed to the house of a man named Henry, if I remember correctly, but it was only a short time thereafter before his manly spirit took its flight to "The Land beyond the Morn "

At the time of his death the fighting had terminated, and learning that General Breckinridge intended to retreat arrangements were made to bury Alex as soon as it could properly be done. After his death he was prepared by loving hands for his last resting place, and I never saw a face in death that looked sweeter or less careworn. It was as placid as a child that had known neither sorrow nor pain. The sad duty of making all the preparations for the burial fell upon me. I rode miles to get the plank and find some one to make the coffin. He was buried in the yard not far from the house in which he died, as nearly as I can remember about an hour before sun-down.

Not during the war did I leave a spot with so heavy a heart, but his was the fate of many a gallant Kentuckian who left everything near and dear to fight the battles of the South. I learned to know your brother best after leaving Jackson. I was with him on the trip to Baton Rouge, and found him one of the most genial and companionable men with whom I met during the war. The night before the battle he was with me in our "mess" and was in the best of spirits. I went into my knap-sack to get some article and chanced to pull out a red silk sash that had been given me by a young lady friend of this city before leaving for the army. He laughingly asked me to let him wear it on the morrow. I of course consented and my recollection is he was buried with the sash on.

I have never known whether or not his remains were removed. If so will you please let me know when, and where they are buried.

I have written much more at length than I intended but could hardly have written less. Of course after so long a lapse of time I may be in error in some of the statements, but I believe they are in the main correct. One thing I will never forget and that is Alex's peaceful look in death.

Mrs. Emily Todd Helm

Very sincerely

Robert P. - 14 months old son of Robert S.

About three months before Nancy's son, Abraham, was born the Lincolns moved to a farm just acquired by Thomas Lincoln<sup>and</sup> for which he had paid Sarah Johnston's brother two hundred dollars cash. Here Nancy Lincoln found that her closest neighbors to the south were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Todd. Early traditions in La Rue County claimed that Nancy and Thomas were married in the Todd home, but this of course was not true. While living here Nancy could not have even surmised the first son of her own child, Abraham, would bear the Robert Todd Lincoln.
